On CONTENTMENT and AVARICE.

CONTENTMENT to the mind is as light to the eye; as the latter discloses every pleasing object to the intellectual powers, so does the former every agreeable idea to the soul; though it does not immediately bring riches to mankind, it does equally the same, by banishing the desire of them; if it cannot directly remove the disquietudes arising from a man's mind, body, or fortune, it makes him easy under them; it destroys all inordinate ambition in a state, and becomes its support against the most dangerous attacks; while the lust of riches, like the frequent decays of a magnificent structure, foretels its final ruin; in man it prevents every tendency to corruption, with respect to the community in which he is placed; it dissipates care, melancholly, and anxiety, from its possessor; sweetens his conversation, makes him fit for society, and gives a perpetual serenity to all his thoughts.

Behold that sordid animal the Gamester, ever anxious of enriching himself, yet ever contemplating his own misery; all his schemes are laid for the oppression of the poor, yet ever terminate to his own ruin: View him in adversity; who pities him? In prosperity; who honours him? Or, in any state of life; who regards him? Fortune is his goddess, De Moivre his guide, and the lust of avarice egs him on to his base employments; while the dice are rattling his heart is throbbing; and the next throw either plunges him into a gulph of misery, or hurries him into an unpreditated rage of distraction; life is a continued series of uneasiness to him; when he walks, he treads upon briars, and his seat is a seat of thorns; his days are days of despair, and his years, years of pain: Hope and fear, those two noble faculties of the soul, cultivated in man for the sublime ends of religion, are prostituted to his villany; and if ill luck succeeds, his abandoned soul sinks by his own curses; peace and tranquility are as far banished from his mind, as honesty and fidelity from his heart; his breast is made subservient to the tortures of suspence, and continually racked by the fiercest extremes. How miserable then must that man be, who is thus enslaved by his lucrative appetite? Fire and sword are slow engines of destruction, compared to the havock this fatal disturber creates in a man's body and fortune; yet such is his disposition, that the warmest solicitations, even from his dearest friends, cannot withhold him from his engagements with his fickle idol; he rather treats them as his enemies, who propose so deadly a task; friendship is bartered for self-interest, and the all powerful lust of gold mars every christian office: How insusceptible of remorse is the Gamester's breast, when he robs a distressed family of its support, or snatches the bread from the teeth of the hungry? O thou monster of nature! How inglorious are thy conquests? Is the eye that sees all things blind to thy inhumanity? Vengeance is spreading her net wide for thee, and will overtake thee in the midst of thy barbarity.

O Avarice! Thou vilest muckworm, what wickedness dost thou create in mankind? How art thou courted by poor, unthinking mortals, for thy deformity? What a train of evils are under thy command? Destruction bounds from every part of thee swifter than the arrow from the archer's breast, and, like a base ingrate as thou art, thou sheddest unheeded bane on those that protect thee; bankruptcy to the tradesmen, and poverty to the men of affluence, are the rewards thou procurest: Whether thou appearest in church or state, in city or at court, yet vice is ever attendant on thee, and the nation that harbours thee sacrifices her liberty to its pursuits; the Statesman, when he becomes thy votary, proves false to his country; and every glowing passion for the public-welfare is chilled in its embryo by the over-ruling power of self-interest; Justice herself is staggered by thy enormities, her sword is blunted by thy outrages; when she calls, in feeble accents, for assistance, her faithless patrons are deaf to all her intreaties, till at length we see vice riding triumphant, spreading her banner as she goes, virtue and religion retiring at the appearance of it, and sad desolation, with all her gloomy attendants, advancing, at a distance, to embrace us.

WILLIAM MASON, J. P.

LONDON, April 12.

Extract of a letter from BURY St. EDMUND'S, dated April 15.

GREAT Signs of diſſatisfaction having appeared for ſome days among the lower people, our Alderman, on Saturday morning ſummoned the gentlemen and tradeſmen together, and propoſed a ſubſcription being ſet on foot to lower the price of proviſions. This was readily aſſented to, and a large Sum was ſubſcribed, with which it was agreed to buy wheat, grind it, and ſell the meal to the poor at one ſhilling the ſtone, or fourteen pounds. This, with the marching in of about 100 Soldiers, it was thought would have quieted them, but the latter had neither powder nor ball. At night they began to aſſemble in great numbers, parading the ſtreets with rags for colours, and, knocking at the doors and windows, kept the inhabitants in continual alarm all night. Soon after four on Sunday morning, they drew up together, when the leaders informed the aſſembly, that if any of them ſtole any thing, or did miſchief, they would hang them on the firſt tree they came to. They next marched to the millers, fixed the price of meal, which they took down under their hands, and calling on each farmer, ſettled the price of wheat at four ſhillings a buſhel, making the farmers as they had done the millers, ſubſcribe to their paper. About nine in the evening they returned, their number being increaſed to 7 or 800, when they marched by beat of drum, and halted in the town. They then went to a maltſter, who, not being at home, his wife was obliged to give it under her hand to ſell wheat at 12s. a comb, or 4s. a buſhel; they afterwards drank four pails of beer, and compelled the other maltſters to the ſame agreement. Finding ſome proviſions intended for the London market, they were ſeized, cut out, and ſold at 3d. per pound. The dealers in butter and cheeſe were next viſited by them, the price of the former was ſettled at 4d. and the latter at 5d. per pound, took it under their hands, and after ranging themſelves in order, declared to the bye-ſtanders what they had done, and ſeparated. Monday morning they met again, to ſee the butter and cheeſe was ſold at their price, which the ſhopkeepers prudently complied with, and had ſuch trade, that it was ſoon gone. They then ſet out to the farmers on the other ſide of the town, towards Pakenham, to get them to ſign. One of the Corporation took his horſe and followed them, in order to perſuade them to return and diſperſe; they told him, their earnings would not maintain them as proviſions were, and they might as well die by a halter, as be ſtarved to death. After they were gone, the inhabitants were ſummoned by the magiſtrates, when it was propoſed, that if the Rioters proceeded to do any miſchief on their return, at the ringing the hall bell, &c. they ſhould join the magiſtrates to ſeize them. On Tueſday, about one in the afternoon, word was brought that they were at the eaſt gate, when the alderman went and deſired them to diſperſe, but they only laughed at him, and followed him to the market hill, where they drew up; about 40 ſoldiers alſo drew up, but unarmed, and the alarum bells being rung, near 1500 tradeſmen and inhabitants ſoon joined them, when the riot act being read, the rioters, who by fatigue, drinking, &c. for three days, were reduced to leſs than 100 in number, gave a ſhout, and ran away, but were followed by ſome of the enraged tradeſmen, who knocked down ſeven or eight, who are ſince committed to Bridewell, and we have been ſince very quiet. To conclude, the farmers were ſo alarmed by theſe poor creatures, that they will not bring us either fowls, butter, or eggs; and the butchers were fearful yeſterday morning that if they killed any meat it would be taken away. We are all like to keep faſt, and make a virtue of neceſſity."

A gentleman who has a little farm in the country of about 60 acres, which he uſed to let at 16l. a year, received advice from his Steward, the other day, that he had let it at 200l. a year; if the rent of farmers, &c. in general, is advanced at this rate, no wonder the proviſions are ſo exceſſive dear.

April 20.

The humble Petition and Remonſtrance of FOUR MILLIONS of uſeful Subjects to their Repreſentatives in Parliament:——Humbly Sheweth,——"THAT we your Petitioners, who labour at the plough, weave at the loom, work at the forge, and perform all the neceſſary buſineſs of the nation in agriculture and commerce, from whoſe inceſſant toil and induſtry you luxuriouſly wanton in ſenſuality and extravagance, moſt humbly preſume to lay before you the grievances which oppreſs us, from the exceſſive prices of all the neceſſaries of life. And, firſt, we ſhould have implored you, with all humility, that all ſorts of carrion might moſt graciouſly have been forbidden, by law, to be purchaſed, but by us alone, for the ſuſtenance of ourſelves and families, being the only animal food which will come within the compaſs of our daily wages. But this intention we ſoon dropped all hopes of carrying into execution, being convinced, by a late act of the legiſlature, and by your daily practice, that the dogs have a much greater intereſt in your houſe than your fellow-creatures of the human ſpecies, and that they will be ſupported with that carrion, through the want of which we muſt periſh: For we are too ſenſible of your humane diſpoſition to expect that you will forego the pleaſure of killing hares and foxes, in order to keep human beings alive. Secondly, we would have prayed that you would benignantly have been pleaſed to feed your horſes on wheat and barley, which being already beyond the power of our purchaſing, it will be no further hardſhip to us; that the prices of them be increaſed to you, and that thereby the price of oats may be ſo lowered as to come within the reach of our wages for the making of bread. But from all hopes of ſucceſs in this alſo we were ſoon driven, becauſe we are convinced, that as this change would prove to be more expenſive to you, and thereby deprive you of ſome part of thoſe immenſe ſums which you ſo uſefully waſte in drunkenneſs, gluttony, gaming, whoredom, and adultery; that our prayer would never have been complied with: For although you prefer the life of a horſe, and the keeping him in good order, for your pride and pleaſure, to the lives and feeding of four millions of uſeful ſubjects; yet we know, that as horſes love oats better than wheat and barley, and oats are cheaper than the two other grains, and that this will ſave your expences; that you will not, by law, enable us to purchaſe oats, but ſtill ſuffer us to be cut off from getting oaten bread. Perfectly perſuaded of the truth and rectitude of the preceding particulars, we preſume not, in preference of ourſelves to dogs and horſes, to petition for redreſs of the aforeſaid grievances, but becauſe it is neceſſary that we ſhould live for the ſake of ſupplying by our labour all the materials of your voluptuouſneſs, exceſs, and pride; and becauſe there is nothing impoſſible for you to accompliſh, by an act of parliament, we, with all humility, implore, that you will be graciouſly pleaſed, either by a ſtatute to aboliſh our ſenſations of hunger, and make us to live without food, ſo that we may feel no pain from the want of daily bread, or that it be enacted, by the authority aforeſaid, that air ſhall henceforth be as ſolid and as nutritious as carrion; and water as ſtrong and as comfortable as ſmall beer; and that we ſhall be enabled to purchaſe theſe by our labour, as being the only two productions of God's creation which now remain to be obtained by our daily wages. Theſe things we humbly implore you to eſtabliſh by law, not for us, but as being uſeful to yourſelves alone; for by experience we are convinced, that no other motives can find entrance into your boſoms: And we farther preſume to remonſtrate, that unleſs you, who have the power to aboliſh the cravings of hunger, and to make air and water ſubſtantial and comfortable ſuſtenance, by act of parliament, ſo that we may live without murmuring, ſhall liſten to our humble petition, and that we ſhall thereby be not compelled, by the claims and wants of nature, unreformed by parliament, to take our ſuſtenance by force; that you will conſider yourſelves to be the cauſe of our breaking the laws, in ſearch of food, and therefore that you, and not we, are the offenders, and ought to be ſentenced to the hands of the public executioner. And your Petitioners (as in duty bound) ſhall ever pray. Signed, 4,000,000.

April 22.

The bill brought in for the better regulation of the Eaſt-India company's affairs, and for the due adminiſtration of juſtice in Bengal, ſets forth, that his late Majeſty, having granted a charter to the united company of merchants trading to the Eaſt-Indies, which charter, ſo far as it reſpects the company's ſettlements of Fort William in Bengal, having been found inadequate to the purpoſes for which it was granted, the company have beſought a more general and comprehenſive charter for the adminiſtration of juſtice in Bengal, in conformity to which requeſt it is ENACTED, that it ſhall be lawful for his Majeſty to eſtabliſh a Supreme Court of Judicature at Fort William, and to declare, that the ſame ſhall conſiſt of a Chief Juſtice, and three other Judges, to be nominated by the Court of Directors, with the approbation of the Lord High Chancellor, and the Chief Juſtices of the King's Bench and Common Pleas; which ſaid Judges ſhall hold their offices upon the ſame terms and conditions as the Judges of England. Should they be inclined, through illneſs or incapacity, to reſign their office, they muſt give a certain number of years notice to the Preſident and Council of Fort William, by which means they will obtain a licence from the ſaid Preſident for ſuch reſignation. The Supreme Court of Judicature, thus conſtituted, is to poſſeſs all Civil, Criminal, and Eccleſiaſtical Juriſdiction; it is to be a Court of Record, and a Court of Oyer and Terminer and Goal Delivery, for the town of Calcutta, and the factory of Fort William: Perſons, however, within a limited time, are allowed to appeal to his Majeſty, or his heirs, provided they give ſecurity to anſwer the coſts of ſuch appeal, ſo that the matter in litigation exceed in value a certain ſum to be hereafter ſpecified. This new charter is to extend to all ſettlements that may hereafter be acquired, whether the provinces of Bengal, Bahar, and Oreſſa, and to all Britiſh ſubjects and Chriſtians reſiding in the ſaid provinces, and to all natives who have matters of complaint to urge againſt any of his Majeſty's ſubjects, or againſt any of their own countrymen. Charges againſt Judges for maladminiſtration ſhall be heard by the Preſident and Council of Fort William; and the Council may ſuſpend, upon conviction, but the party aggrieved by ſuch ſuſpenſion may appeal to his Majeſty. After returning, however, to England, he is amenable to the Court of King's Bench in England for any breach of his duty. It is further enacted, that after ſuch limited time no Preſident, Governor, Chief Juſtice, or Judge, their Miniſters, or Agents, ſhall be permitted to accept, in any manner whatever, preſents or gratuities from any of the Indian Princes; nor ſhall they carry on, or be concerned in traffic or commerce of any kind for their or any other perſon's uſe, benefit, and advantage. For the more effectual obedience to ſuch prohibition, the Preſident, Governor, and each of the Council, ſhall, upon entering on each reſpective office, ſwear that they will not directly or indirectly receive preſents, or carry on traffic, but that they will, to the beſt of their abilities, faithfully diſcharge their reſpective offices, without partiality, favour, or affection. Theſe oaths are to be taken before the Chief Juſtice, who is authorized to adminiſter the ſame. The rate of intereſt is to be fixed by this act, and the perſons taking more than the ſum to be allotted ſhall be liable to proſecution for an uſurious contract as in England. The prohibition not to take preſents extends to the military as well as civil officers of the company. After a time to be ſpecified, no ſubject of his Majeſty ſhall be permitted to enjoy any office, civil or military, under the authority of any Eaſtern or European power, without an expreſs licence from his Majeſty, under the pain of being ſeverely puniſhed, after due conviction, before the Supreme Court of Judicature, to be eſtabliſhed by the new charter. Neither are any of Majeſty's ſubjects permitted to buy up artillery, muſquets, or fire arms, except for the uſe of the company, and perſons convicted of ſuch offence ſhall be liable to a diſcretionary puniſhment, to be inflicted by the Supreme Court of Judicature. It is further enacted, that the Preſident and Council ſhall, from time to time, iſſue rules and regulations for the good order and civil government of the company's ſettlements, and levy reaſonable impoſts for the ſupport of the civil government in Bengal; and the Preſident and Council for the time being are empowered to act as Juſtices of the Peace for the ſaid ſettlement, and are alſo authorized to hold quarter ſeſſions at certain times within the year, and perform every function which relates to the office. All fines incurred by a breach of this act ſhall be applied to the company's uſe and benefit, provided the offending parties ſhall have been tried by a jury of Britiſh ſubjects reſiding at Calcutta, but not otherwiſe, and if any perſon be ſued or proſecuted for any thing done in obedience to this act, he may plead the general iſſue, and give this act and the ſpecial matter in evidence in his defence.

BRISTOL, April 18. Laſt week died Mr. Philip Maſon, at George Inn, at Uſk in Monmouthſhire. A man of remarkable large ſize; he meaſured round the wriſt 11 inches—at his arm near the ſhoulder 21 inches—round the breaſt 5 feet—body 6 feet 1 inch—thigh 3 feet 1 inch—calf of the leg 2 feet 1 inch—and ſmall of ditto 1 foot 7 inches, and notwithſtanding his bulk, was extremely active.

NEW-YORK, June 1.

BY Captains Dobbs and Wynkoop, from Coracoa, we learn, that about five weeks ago, eight Dutch trading ſloops were taken on the Spaniſh Main, by the guarda coſtas, and a Scooner ſunk, and every ſoul periſhed; and that two ſtout ſloops of twelve guns and 100 men each, were ſailed from Coracoa in queſt of the Spaniards, and were determined to take ſatisfaction where ever they met them.

BOSTON, June 1.

His Honour the Governor, with the reſolve of the General Aſſembly of the colony of Connecticut, have iſſued a proclamation, continuing the embargo laid on the exportation of all wheat, Indian corn, and other grain of the growth and produce of that colony, and meal and flour manufactured in the ſame, by his Honour's proclamation dated the 28th of March laſt, (which terminates the 20th inſtant) till the 15th day of July next.

NEWPORT, June 1.

The Brigt. Dolphin, Capt. Henry Weeden, bound on a voyage for wood to bring to this market, was caſt away Yeſterday ſe'nnight, at the town of Weſterly, in this colony, the veſſel loſt, rigging, ſails, &c. ſaved.—'Tis ſaid the loſs of this veſſel was occaſioned by being detained a conſiderable time by one of the board of commiſſioners cruiſers, of which we hear there are, at this time, ſeven on this coaſt, including the Beaver and Gaſpee now in this harbour.——

Poor New-England!—The Spaniards taking your Whalemen in the Weſt-Indies, and your (pretended) friends taking and harraſſing your trade on your own coaſts, and even in your harbours and little coves and creeks!

Endleſs is the Liſt of human Ills;
And Sighs might ſooner fail than Cauſe to ſigh.

THE Author of Nature has moſt certainly intended Death as a Relief from a various Being, ever ſubject to Sorrows, Difficulties, and Diſappointments: In the Contemplation of it there is a Sort of Delight, which is alternately mixed with Terror and Sorrow—but methinks the Soul has its Curioſity more than ordinarily awakened, when we turn our Thoughts upon the Conduct of thoſe who have behaved themſelves with an equal, a chearful, a reſigned Temper in the laſt Extremity. I have been led into this ſerious Train of Thinking, from the compoſed Chriſtian-like Deportment of a late intimate Acquaintance in the laſt Moments of her Exiſtence.—As I ſtood by her worthy Parents (who were over-whelmed with Grief for an amiable, lovely Daughter, who was their Honour and Comfort, and never, till that Hour, ſince her Birth, had been the Cauſe of a Moment's Sorrow to them) this was my Soliloquy on ſo melancholly, ſo woful a Scene:

"How ſurpriſing is this Change! She who was in the Bloom "of Youth, and in full Poſſeſſion of vigorous Life, Strength, "Beauty, and all that was lovely and agreeable, to be thus in "a few Weeks reduced to this fatal Extremity! Thoſe Lips, "which now look pale and livid, but lately gave inexpreſſible "Pleaſure and Delight to all who heard their Utterance.—"Kindneſs was the Motive of all her Actions.—The chief "Purpoſe of her Life (next to obeying him to whom ſhe is "gone) was to pleaſe and make her Parents happy: And her "natural Chearfulneſs of Temper, Affability and Sweetneſs of "Diſpoſition, joined with every Virtue capable of adorning the "human Mind, rendered her an agreeable Companion and "pleaſant Friend; whoſe Death will be moſt juſtly lamented "by thoſe who have had the Happineſs of her Acquaintance. "None who knew her ſo well as I, but would reſign all the "World can beſtow, to be ſo near the End of ſuch a Life. "Why then doeſt thou, my Heart, ſo little liſten to the Dictates of Reaſon, as to lament the Departure of this Paragon "of her Sex? But ſhe is now at Reſt, and with her laſt Breath "expired a Soul, who never indulged a Paſſion unfit for the "Place ſhe is gone to."

Why then her Loſs deplore who is not loſt?

Meſſrs. POWELL & HUGHES,

The following Elegy was wrote at the particular Requeſt of a Friend of the deceaſed young Lady, and your inſerting it in your next Gazette, will oblige, Yours, &c. CLIO.

An ELEGY on Miſs H——T B——D,

An amiable young Lady, lately deceaſed.

Fix'd is the Term of all the Race of Earth,
And ſuch the hard Condition of our Birth,
No Force can then reſiſt, no Flight can ſave;
All fall alike, the Fearful and the Brave.
POPE's HOMER.

CORINNA's gone! that once inſpiring Fair,
Whoſe Charms had warm'd the Anchoritic Breaſt;
Whoſe bright Perfections had engroſs'd his Care,
And ſooth'd Anxiety itſelf to Reſt.

Whoſe Tongue, with heav'nly Eloquence adorn'd,
Spoke forth a Mind with all Endowments fraught;
Whoſe Lips were never open'd, but they charm'd,
In ſmootheſt Accent, and correcteſt Thought.

Oh! ſhe was ev'ry Way divinely Fair,
She was, alas! more than the Muſe can tell;
Charming in Perſon, and in Soul ſincere,
Well worthy Love, and was belov'd as well.

But ah! this Fair, in whom each Beauty dwelt,
Too ſoon a Victim fell to Death's Award:
That Heart, which all religious Tranſports felt,
Could not the Sentence of her Death retard.

He, cruel Tyrant! ſeiz'd her in her Bloom;
With ghaſtly Grin devour'd his deſtin'd Prey.
Oh! that ſo bright a Sun ſhould ſet at Noon!
So dark a Night ſucceed ſo clear a Day!

But proudeſt Mortals muſt embrace the Grave;
'Tis not the gilded Pageantries of Pow'r,
Nor all that Beauty, all that Wealth e'er gave,
That can protect us from the fatal Hour.

When Death the Trump of Diſſolution ſounds,
The Summons Earth's remoteſt Corners hear;
The Weak it frightens, and the Strong confounds;
The Virt'ous only are exempt from Fear.

In her pure Breaſt, whoſe Loſs theſe Lines bemoan,
(Our only Conſolation now ſhe's fled)
True Piety, in brighteſt Luſtre ſhone,
And deck'd with Hope her Breath-departing Bed.

If all that Virt'ous does the Mind employ,
And Life to all religious Duties giv'n,
Intitles Mortals to a State of Joy,
The lov'd CORINNA is a Saint in Heav'n.

A Saint in Heav'n! Oh exalted Name!
Be this our Hope, be this our Sorrow's Foe:
This Thought ſhould quench each Life-conſuming Flame,
And baniſh ev'ry painful Pang of Woe.

CHARLES-TOWN, JULY 2.

LAST Friday died, much lamented, the much respected Miss Harriot Beresford, eldest Daughter of Richard Beresford, Esq;—Her Death was occasioned by a Consumption, a Disorder hardly known in this Province Thirty Years ago, but now so common, that three Persons were buried here last Friday and Saturday, who died of it.

On Tuesday the 23d past was shot, in the Woods, about Half a Mile from his own House, at the Three Runs, and expired in two Hours after, Captain Lazarus Brown, formerly a Captain of Rangers in the Service of this Government, and reckoned the tallest Man in this Province, being near Seven Feet high.—The Ball which killed him entered on the Left Side of his Back-Bone, and lodged in his Wrist. A Jury of Inquest brought in their Verdict Wilful Murder, by Persons unknown.——This Murder is supposed to have been committed by one Payne, belonging to a desperate Gang of Villains which urged the Settlers on the Western Frontiers, some Years ago, to the violent Measure of driving them out of the Province, in a Manner which our Laws did not justify, and who, of late, we are informed, are returned seven Times worse than they were.

Last Tuesday returned from London, in the Portland, Captain Wilson, Miss Bremar.—Mr. Fox, a Merchant, is also arrived in the said Ship.

No less than Nine new Members were admitted Yesterday, at the Quarterly Meeting of the incorporated Charles-Town Library Society.

The Charles-Town Artillery Company was mustered and exercised Yesterday Afternoon, and made a grand Appearance, having much encreased in Number since His Majesty's last Birth-Day.

We just now hear, that the Gaspee, one of His Majesty's armed Scooners, employed to check Smuggling in the Colony of Rhode-Island, having lately seized some Vessels concerned in an illicit Trade, and sent them to Boston, upon running ashore in the River between Newport and Providence, on the 10th past, was set Fire to and burnt, and the Commander shot at, and wounded in four different Parts.

The last Month has proved the coolest June ever known here—and as we had moderate Rains almost every Day, there is the finest Prospect of a most plentiful Crop; which has great Influence on the Sales of Negroes, and keeps up the Demand for that Sort of Merchandize.

This Day embarked for Rhode Island in the Brigt. Betsy, Capt. Schermerhorn, John Izard, Alexander Wright, and Archibald McNeill, Esqrs. with their Families.

Considerable Quantities of Indian Corn have been imported since our last, yet the Price is not lowered—and Rice still sells at Four Pounds and Ten Shillings per Hundred Weight.

POWELL, HUGHES, & Co.

At the Printing-Office on the BAY, near the Exchange,

Have just received a large Quantity

OF

Dr. Keyser's GENUINE Pills;

WHICH numerous Trials have proved to be the safest, best, mildest, and most agreeable Medicine ever discovered, for the Cure of the VENEREAL DISEASE, from the slightest Infection to the most inveterate State of that dreadful and almost unconquerable Disorder; Nor hath any Medicine been presented to the Public, whose Cures are so well attested, and regularly authenticated, as those performed by these invaluable Pills; for they have not only received the Sanction and Approbation of Noblemen and Ambassadors of the first Rank and Quality, who have inspected, and been Eye-Witnesses to several surprising great Cures performed by them, but likewise of the Members of the Academy of Arts and Sciences, and of the Faculties of Physic and Surgery in most Parts of Europe.

This is the Medicine so much sought after by the repeated and indefatigable Labours of a great Number of learned and ingenious Chymists, for these Two Hundred Years past.—The celebrated Boerhaave, in particular, endeavouring to find out a mild Mercurial Medicine, like this of Mr. KEYSER's, fell upon the following Method to procure it, but did not succeed:—He fastened Bottles of Mercury to the Sails of a Wind-Mill for many Months, in Order, by the Effects of Motion, to bring it into an Æthiops per se. But this great and useful Production was reserved to recompence the Researches of the successful Mr. KEYSER; who, after many repeated Trials in his private Practice, proposed it to the Gentlemen of the Faculty, as the most knowing and learned Judges, whose Testimonies could not be suspected; before whom public Proofs and Trials were made of his Remedy.—The Success attending his first public Trials was established and proved by several rigid and nice Examinations, not only immediately after the Patients had been treated with his Medicine, but even for the Space of one and two Years afterwards, to see whether his numerous Cures were durable; when, to the Honour of Mr. KEYSER, not a single Instance could be found of its Failure, though many of his Patients were so far gone in the Venereal Disorder, as well as with a Complication of others, that little Hopes were entertained of the Probability of their Recovery.

Immediately after which Transactions, the Trials being made in Paris, the King settled a Pension of Ten Thousand Livres per Annum on Mr. KEYSER, granted him his Royal Letters Patent, and had an Hospital erected, where these Pills are administered in every Stage of the Venereal Disorder, from whence not less than Two Thousand Patients have been discharged, perfectly cured, in the Space of a few Years.

From the above Facts, it is not to be wondered that the highest Encomiums have been passed on this Medicine, by the most eminent Physicians and Surgeons in all Parts of Europe; for Experience has convinced them, that it has succeeded beyond any Thing yet discovered, in absolutely curing not only the most obstinate and malignant Venereal Disorders, however complicated and inveterate they were, but likewise in a great Number of other perplexing chronical and lingering Disorders.

The above Pills effectually cure the Yaws, and have often performed great Cures in Gouty, Rheumatic, Scorbutic, and Scrofulous Disorders—the Piles, White-Swellings, Pimpled Faces, Asthmas, Suppressions of Urine, Palsies, Hysterics, and the Green Sickness.—As an Alterative they prevent Agues and Fevers, Apoplexies, Lethargies, Falling Sickness, Giddiness or Swimming in the Head, &c. &c. if a Box of them are taken in the Spring and Fall.—They are truly a Specific, and never fail curing a Fleur Albus, or that particular Weakness to which Females are so subject; and their superior Virtues over any other Medicines have often been happily experienced, for they have conquered several desperate Maladies which could not well be classed amongst the commonly-known Disorders, therefore were deemed incurable, as they yielded to no other Medicine.——They are so remarkable gentle in their Operation, that they may be taken at any Time, and even given to Children that have Worms, who in general are as fond of them as they are of Sweet-Meats.

They surprisingly strengthen the Constitution, create an Appetite, require no particular Regimen or Confinement, for they may be taken, without the least Danger to the Patients, by those who are obliged to be exposed to all Kinds of Weather, and a Patient may be cured by this Medicine without any Person about him, or even a Bed-fellow (provided it is not a Female one) harbouring the least Suspicion of his Disorder.

Some Readers may possibly imagine, that too many Virtues are here ascribed to this Medicine; and though they may allow its Efficacy in Venereal Disorders, cannot easily be persuaded that its Virtues extend to the Cure of others: But we would advise such to consult what has been so often and amply set forth by so many learned Men, and the most eminent Practitioners in Physic, of the four great Remedies, viz. Mercury, Opium, the Bark, and Steel, and they will be convinced in what a great Variety of Cases each of these excellent Medicines are employed in with Success; and were it not for the extraordinary Virtues of these few select Remedies, the Advantages accruing to Mankind from the Practice of Physic in general, would hardly render it worthy of Attention.

The above GENUINE Pills, are (by Mr. KEYSER's Appointment) sold by POWELL, HUGHES, & Co. at SIX DOLLARS the Whole Box, containing about One Hundred and Ten Pills, and THREE DOLLARS the Half Box, with full Directions for taking them, and enabling the Patient to judge of his own Disease.——One Whole Box, unless in an inveterate Complaint, is generally sufficient to perfect a Cure.

N. B. The Venders of the above Medicine are so well assured (from several authenticated Testimonies, and the Assurances they have received from the Proprietor) of their proving efficacious in every Stage of the Venereal Disease (which several Persons in this Province have been already happily convinced of) that they hereby promise to return the Money, if a complete Cure is not performed, provided the Patient adheres to the Manner of taking it, as is given in the printed Directions.

JOHN MARLEY,

HAVING disposed of his Carts, Horses, &c. to Mr. Benjamin Simons, has declined the Woodselling Business since the first Instant; therefore desires all Persons indebted to him, to call and settle the same immediately; and those to whom he is indebted, are likewise desired to send in their Accompts, that they may be settled and paid. June 7, 1772.

From the Original Letters of CASPIPINA.

MY LORD,

IN my laſt, I furniſhed your Lordſhip with as particular an account as I have been able to obtain of the many aſtoniſhing improvements which a very few years have produced in this elegant and growing city. Common juſtice calls upon me to inform you, that ſome of the beſt inſtitutions, that regard its internal police, are under the direction and management of the people called Quakers, whoſe general diſapprobation of all faſhionable amuſements and diverſions, gives them leiſure and opportunity of embarking in and proſecuting ſuch ſchemes as are uſeful, as well as ornamental to human ſociety. This ſober, virtuous people generally engage with caution, but execute with the moſt perſevering firmneſs and aſſiduity. The Hoſpital and Houſe of Employment are ſtanding monuments of their labours—And the period ſeems to be faſt approaching, when the cauſe of literature will receive no ſmall ſervices from their attention and zeal. A Philoſophical Society for the encouragement of ſcience, arts, and manufactures, hath been lately inſtituted in this city, which numbers many of the moſt ſenſible of this denomination among its Fellows. My friend the merchant aſſures me, that the thirſt of knowledge increaſes much among them; that they begin to diſcover the ſubſerviency of human learning to many valuable purpoſes; and now think it no more a crime to ſend their children to ſchool to learn Greek and Latin, Mathematics and natural Philoſophy, than to put them to merchants or mechanics, to be inſtructed in the ſeveral arts and myſteries, that are become neceſſary for the ſupport of the preſent temporal life;—wiſely judging, with reſpect to the ſpiritual life, which comes from, and is to be ſupported by another world, that human learning has no more to do with it, and can no more awaken or promote it, than the art of making clocks and watches. If I remember right, BAKER, who has written ſo ingeniouſly upon the uſes of learning, ſeems to put it upon the ſame footing; and our Tutor at Magdalen-Hall has frequently told us, that all the acquirements of human knowledge, though highly neceſſary for the improvement and eſtabliſhment of civil ſociety, can never impart to us one ſingle ray of that which is truly Divine.

[illegible] defence of Religion.—For the very ſame armour that is weak and ineffectual in the hands of the unbeliever, becomes ſtrong and of heavenly temper, when worn or wielded by the champion of goſpel truth.

Upon theſe principles, my Lord, I cannot but look upon it to be the duty of the real Chriſtian to patronize and encourage every well-formed ſcheme for the advancement of literature; and I was particularly pleaſed to hear from my friend, who is himſelf a Fellow of the Philoſophical Society, that the Quakers had ſtepped forth, and joined the votaries of ſcience; for their well-known induſtry and application cannot fail, in all human probability, of inſuring it ſucceſs.

What I have here ſaid of the Quakers, your Lordſhip muſt not conſider as the leaſt diſparagement or diminuition of the other religious ſocieties. The members of our communion, as well as thoſe of the Preſbyterian and other diſſenting denominations, have engaged warmly in every ſcheme that has been propoſed for the general good; though they all candidly confeſs, that no inſtitutions have been carried on with ſo much ſpirit, and crowned with ſo much ſucceſs, as thoſe in which the Quakers have had the lead and direction.—PENN engrafted an excellent policy upon their religious principles—and BARCLAY has given theſe principles all the advantages, which can be derived from throwing them into the form of a ſyſtem. Theſe Authors your Lordſhip has carefully read—and I remember once to have heard you drop an intimation, that BARCLAY's book had never been anſwered in ſuch a manner as to weaken the force of his arguments.

I dined the other day with an eminent Phyſician of this place, who profeſſes himſelf a Preſbyterian. There was a mixed company; and the converſation turned upon religious ſubjects. A clergyman of the eſtabliſhed Church, who appeared to be very infirm and much advanced in years, undertook to reconcile the ſeeming differences that prevailed among the profeſſors of Chriſtianity. He very ingeniouſly diſtinguiſhed the things eſſential, from thoſe which are not eſſential to ſalvation; and, with a truly benevolent Chriſtian ſpirit, declared, that as religion was a life, manifeſted by good tempers and diſpoſitions within, and correſpondent actions and office as without; as it did not depend upon any particular ſet of doctrines or opinions, much leſs upon any particular modes of worſhip or outward church diſcipline, ſo he found his own heart intimately drawn to and united with good men of every denomination.—You, Sir, ſaid he (turning to the Phyſician) are a Preſbyterian.—Thou art a Quaker, (addreſſing himſelf to another of the company)—And I am a Church-man.—Suppoſe now, whilſt we are diſputing about religious principles, a ſervant ſhould ruſh into the room, and eagarly inform us, that a neighbour's houſe was on fire, that the maſter of the family was abroad, that the poor wife with two or three little ones were ſcreaming out for help, and that all their goods muſt periſh, if they could not have immediate aſſiſtance. My Quaker friend there, and myſelf, unmoved at the melancholly tidings, keep our ſeats and gravely continue the debate. My Preſbyterian friend forgets all his zeal about opinions and doctrines, ſtarts from the table in an inſtant, and haſtens to the ſcene of diſtreſs. Pray now, Gentlemen, continued the venerable old man, which of us, in ſuch a caſe, would be the Chriſtian?—I—moſt aſſuredly, cried out the Phyſician; and tho' I really find myſelf much attached to Calvin's ſyſtem, yet I am ſure, in the caſe you mention, or any other ſimilar one, neither Calvin's opinions, nor the opinions of any other man could rouſe my compaſſion and urge me to the benevolent act. Nothing but a power ſuperior to all opinion, which carries its own evidence and motive along with it, and which I truſt, is "the DIVINITY that ſtirs within me"—could accompliſh this—and if I ſhould reſiſt its powerful call, merely to indulge my own humour in an idle and unprofitable debate, what would it be but throwing away my proper and natural food, to live upon the wind; nay, loſing heaven for the ſake of a ſyllogiſm.

I think your Lordſhip, had you been preſent, would have pronounced this to be good Divinity: and for the honour of the Philadelphians, I do aſſure you, that theſe ſentiments generally prevail among them; and there is leſs religious bigotry here, than in any place I have yet viſited. The only circumſtance in which the Preſbyterians ſeem to be leſs catholic than others, is their violent oppoſition to the propoſed eſtabliſhment of a Biſhop or Biſhops in America: But, indeed, I cannot think they are ſo much to blame in this matter, as our Church friends would inſinuate; for, was I to ſettle in America, I ſhould never ſay a word in favour of an eſtabliſhed epiſcopate, till the powers of the intended Biſhop were accurately defined, and a ſatisfactory ſecurity given by Act of Parliament againſt any future encroachments. Could this be done, I think no reaſonable diſſenters, upon their own principles, would promote any further oppoſition.

The Quakers have three places of worſhip in this city, the Engliſh Preſbyterians three, the Scotch Preſbyterians two, the German Lutherans two (one of which is very large and elegant) the German Calviniſts one, the Baptiſts one, the Roman Catholics two, and the Methodiſts one. I have viſited moſt of theſe places, and have been introduced to many of the Clergy, and find them generally moderate, quiet and charitable. They are all warmly attached to the Britiſh conſtitution, and whilſt their civil and religious liberties are ſecured to them, will remain as affectionate and obedient ſubjects, as any in his Majeſty's dominions.

Our friend CHARLES engaged to furniſh your Lordſhip with all the materials he could collect relative to the city and province of NEW YORK. I hope he is fulfilling his promiſe. But I had a hint from a gentleman, who lately ſaw him there, that he had been ſadly taken in by a ſet of people, under the maſk of religion.—You know his honeſt heart has ever been too ſuſceptible of impreſſions from your pretenders to extraordinary ſanctity. However, I am ſure, if their tenets or practices lead to any thing that is narrow or uncharitable, his liberal and generous turn of mind will ſpon ſhake off the deception.

I ſend your Lordſhip the firſt volume of the Tranſactions of the New Philoſophical Society, which will afford no ſmall entertainment to yourſelf and my other Oxford friends.—I am much obliged to you for Guſtavus Vaſa, and the Farmer's Letters to the people of Ireland. I have a ſtrong partiality for all the writings of that excellent author, and now want but one book to complete my collection of his works.

I am, my Lord,
Your Lordſhip's moſt ſincere friend,
And devoted ſervant,
